PREFACE.

1146041

The compiling of this work was the result of an interest awakened by the publication of the book on Walter Allen and some of his descendants, by Mr. Allen H. Bent, in 1896. The first portion is a quotation from Mr. Bent's work, giving the direct line of family from (1) Walter Allen (1635–40); (2) John Allen; (3) Benjamin Allen (1662); (4) Benjamin Allen (1709).

According to Mr. Bent, Phinehas Allen, the fifth child and second son of Benjamin Allen (1709), was without descent. The remainder of the book embodies the research of the author upon this point.

It appears that Phinehas Allen was married three times and had children by his second and third wives. Having traced carefully the records of the marriages of Phinehas Allen (1745), the births, marriages, and deaths of nearly all his children are given, but no effort has been made to trace in full their descendants except in the case of his first child, Benjamin, born Nov. 4, 1777. To date of publication this record seems to be complete.

WALTER ALLEN'S DESCENDANTS.

1. WALTER[1] ALLEN was in Newbury, Mass., in 1640, and possibly before (the town was incorporated in 1635), but moved to Watertown about 1652. In 1665 he sold his estate in the latter town and bought sixty acres near the Concord boundary in what was then called Watertown Farms, afterward the town of Weston. In 1669 he purchased 200 acres more in Watertown Farms. About 1673 he moved to Charlestown, where he died July 8, 1681, æ. 80. He took oath in 1677 that he was 76, so he must have been born about 1601. At his death he not only owned land in Watertown and Charlestown, but in Sudbury and Haverhill. The latter farm came into his possession in 1673 in payment of a debt due from Thomas Davis.

Walter Allen's occupation is variously given in the old records as "farmour," planter, haberdasher, shop-keeper, and once (1673) more specifically, as a "Haberdasher of Hatts." The inventory of his estate amounts to £3015, a goodly sum for those days. When he came to Watertown he had a wife Rebecca, who died ———, and he married in Charlestown, Nov. 29, 1678, Abigail Rogers.

Children of Walter and Rebecca, the first three born probably in England, the other two in Newbury:

i. JOHN.
ii. DANIEL.
iii. JOSEPH.
iv. ABIGAIL, b. Oct. 1, 1641.
v. BENJAMIN, b. Apr. 15, 1647.

2. JOHN[2] ALLEN (Walter[1]) lived in Newbury, Mass., until 1662, when he moved to Sudbury, where he died Dec. 1, 1711, probably about 80 years old. He was a tailor, perhaps the tailor of the town, though for a few years in the latter part of his life he had a competitor in Enoch Cleveland, youngest son of Moses Cleveland, of Woburn, the first American ancestor of President Cleveland. John Allen also had a farm, where he lived, in the part of Sudbury now Wayland.

Sudbury was attacked by the Indians during King Philip's War in 1676, and John Allen was one of the sufferers, his loss on a petition to the General Court being estimated at £60. In 1688 he was one of those who took the public stock of ammunition into their hands, a sort of minute man. It is probable that his son Thomas was killed during the first French and Indian War (King William's War, 1689), as John Allen's name appears on a petition of those "some of us for ourselves, others for our children and servants who were last winter impressed into dreadful service, where by reason of cold and hunger and in tedious marches many score of miles in snow and water, and laying on the snow by night, having no provision but what they could carry on their backs, beside hard arms and ammunition, it cost many of them their lives."

John left a will, dated Aug. 9, 1708, three years before his death, his son Benjamin being made executor. His first wife, Sarah, died Jan. 12, 1702, and his second wife, Mary, is probably the Mary Allen who died in Sudbury, Aug. 30, 1727.

Children of John and Sarah, i. to v. born in Newbury, vi. to viii. in Sudbury:

i. DEBORAH, m. Joseph Dean.
ii. JOHN, b. Aug. 28, 1656; died before his father.
iii. SAMUEL, b. April 8, 1658.
iv. JOSEPH, b. March 18, 1660.
v. BENJAMIN, b. Jan. 30, 1662.
vi. REBECCA, b. May 20, 1664.
vii. THOMAS, b. April 29, 1666; d. March 23, 1689.
viii. SARAH, b. March 7, 1668; d. unm., Aug. 29, 1702.

3. BENJAMIN[3] ALLEN (John[2], Walter[1]) was born in Newbury, Mass., Jan. 30, 1662, but was taken to Sudbury, Mass., the same year. He was a farmer and lived at Watertown Farms (incorporated in 1712 as Weston), where he died Aug. 12, 1721, æ. 59. His tombstone is in the old burial ground at Weston Centre. He married Frances Rice (born Feb. 3, 1671), daughter of Thomas Rice, of Sudbury. The Boston Gazette says Benjamin's widow lived to be 96; if so, she died about 1767.

Children of Benjamin and Frances:

i. THOMAS, b. 1690.
ii. FRANCES, m. Dec. 24, 1724, John Gregory, of Weston.

vi. BENJAMIN, b. Dec. 13, 1709.

He was a man of a very considerable property, as evidenced by the fact that in 1781 he was taxed on real estate £19, and on personal £2 19*s*. in the town of Lincoln, and he was by reason of service exempt from the war treasurer's tax. He was taxed in Lexington in 1783. 6. BENJAMIN[6] ALLEN (Phinehas,[5] Benjamin, Jr.,[4] Benjamin,[3] John,[2] Walter[1]), born Lexington, Nov. 4, 1777 (see Ashby record, Aug. 16, 1846), died Oct. 19, 1866; married, first, Feb. 4, 1798, Asenath Colman, of Ashby, born Oct. 7, 1776, who died Dec. 4, 1848; second, Aug. 16, 1849, Vashti Wilder, daughter of Rufus Wilder, of Ashby, born Aug. 26, 1788, who died Nov. 27, 1859. He was a representative in Massachusetts Legislature, from Ashby, in 1854; he was a farmer and shoemaker.

Asenath Colman (sometimes written Coleman) the first wife of Benjamin Allen, and mother of all his children, was a descendant of James Colman and wife Rachel, who removed from Ipswich to the northeast part of Ashburnham in 1743. To him and one Deacon Foster falls the distinction of being the first permanent settlers in Dorchester Canada, the original name of the present town of Ashburnham. During the troublous times from 1745 to 1749, it is known that Mr. Foster, retiring within the line of the block houses, resided in Lunenburg. It is not probable that Mr. Colman remained all the time during this period of insecurity (caused by the French and Indian wars) in Dorchester Canada. However, he is found here continuously after 1750.

* See Genealogy of Parker family. † See Genealogy of Thurston family.

For several years the nearest church was in Lunenberg, and in 1743 Mr. Colman and his wife brought letters from the church in Ipswich, and united with it. In 1760, when the church was organized in Dorchester Canada, they transferred their church relations. From the record of this proceeding it has been erroneously inferred that Mr. Colman at that time removed from Lunenburg to this place. The records of every year afford ample evidence that except during the years 1745 to 1749, of which little is known, Mr. Colman resided continuously in this town.

He was appointed on committees by the proprietors, and was held in high esteem by his associates. In 1765, at the first town meeting in Ashburnham, he was chosen one of the selectmen and a surveyor of highways. When Ashby was incorporated, his house and lands were included in that town, where his descendents have been numerous. He died Aug. 15, 1773. (See History of Ashburnham.)

His son Benjamin, baptized in Lunenburg, Aug. 3, 1749, married, Dec. 25, 1770, Susannah Martin, daughter of John Martin. He was a prominent citizen of Ashby; town clerk, 1794–8. They were the parents of Asenath Colman.

26. ZENAS[7] ALLEN (Benjamin,[6] Phinehas,[5] Benjamin, Jr.,[4] Benjamin,[3] John,[2] Walter[1]), born Nov. 4, 1805, died May 20, 1887; married, first, Caroline Randall, Sept. 11, 1827, born Ashburnham, March 5, 1805 who died Hyde Park, March 13, 1869; second, Mrs. Charlotte Maynard (Clarke) Sanders, of New Ipswich, N. H., March 23, 1870, born at Whateley, Mass., Feb. 18, 1822. He was a paper hanger by trade, but for many years prior to his decease was in the employ of the Hyde Park Woolen Company. He was very prominent in church affairs, and deacon of the Congregational Church. He represented the city of Boston in the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1853 and 1854. (His father was also a representative from Ashby, in 1854.) He was a member of the first Board of Selectmen of the town of Hyde Park, where he resided and was much respected. The Hyde Park Historical Society at his death published a memorial of him.

Caroline Randall, the first wife, and mother of the children of Zenas Allen, was a descendant of Thomas Hastings (1), of Ipswich, England, who settled in Watertown, Mass., in 1634. His son, Samuel (2), was the father of Samuel, Jr (3), born in Shrewsbury in 1735, who was the father of Charles Hastings (4), born in Princeton in 1760, who with his brother settled in Ashburnham in 1783. It is a fact worthy of mention that Charles Hastings enlisted in the Continental Army five times for short terms during the Revolutionary War. During his last enlistment he served under Gen. Lafayette at West Point.

The Revolutionary War service of Charles Hastings, as preserved at the State House and certified to by Hon. William M. Olin, Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, is as follows: —

Children of Zenas and Caroline (Randall) Allen:

i. CHARLES HASTINGS, b. Boston, June 14, 1828.
ii. GEORGE HENRY, born Fitchburg, Nov. 22, 1832.

27. CHARLES HASTINGS[8] ALLEN, (Zenas,[7] Benjamin,[6] Phinehas,[5] Benjamin, Jr.,[4] Benjamin,[3] John,[2] Walter,[1]) born Boston, June 14, 1828; married, July 2, 1849, Caroline F. Sanders, daughter of George and Caroline (Muzzey) Sanders, born New Ipswich, N. H., Aug. 9, 1827, died Boston, Aug. 31, 1897.

Hon. Charles H. Allen was educated in the public schools of Boston. His business life began with a term of service as the youngest boy in the dry goods jobbing store of J. H. & J. Osgood, of Boston. Subsequently he became bookkeeper for Francis Skinner & Co., commission merchants, who were engaged in selling cotton and woolen fabrics for manufacturers.

In 1868 he entered a partnership in the firm of Leland, Allen & Bates, which carried on the same business as the firm with whom he had previously been employed. This connection lasted until 1876, when the firm was dissolved, and since that time Mr. Allen has never been engaged in mercantile business.

From 1887 until 1897 Mr. Allen was president of the Central National Bank of Boston. That his management was a success is best evidenced by the fact that dividends were paid semi-annually, which gave excellent satisfaction to the stockholders. Since January, 1880, Mr. Allen has been president of the Home Savings Bank, and here his financial ability has found an extended opportunity for display. When he assumed the presidency, the bank had been under the shadow of a temporary injunction for the space of two years. In less than eight months this was dissolved. The deposits at that time were about $2,500,000. When the injunction was put aside there was some call for deposits, for which ample provision had been made. The deposits at this time were reduced to $1,700,000. Not long afterwards deposits commenced to grow, and by gradual and steady increase they have now passed the six and a half million mark. The increase in 1897 was larger than that of any similar bank in Boston, with a single exception; if the increase was taken on the basis of a percentage, it would be by far the largest. Mr. Allen was made president entirely without his solicitation; as he had no previous connection with the bank, the statement of the marked success attained carries with it its own praise.

For many years Mr. Allen was a member of the Mercantile Library Association, and from the years 1846 to 1853 served as a member of its board of government. In 1851 he was elected president after a spirited contest. These were the palmy days of the Library Association, when it had over 2,300 members, and the number of books was over 22,000. The educational idea was prominent at that time, and a certain share of the work done was that which has since been taken up by the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Men's Christian Union.

The list of men whose education was broadened by the training received in the Mercantile Library Association is a widely extended one, and its influence upon the community is far from being lost, even at the present time.

Mr. Allen has had his share of official honors, and has declined others of equal importance to those named. In 1867 and 1868 he was a member of the Common Council of the city of Boston, the last year serving as president. From 1869 to 1872 he was a member of the Cochituate Water Board of Boston, being president of the board the last two years. During this time Chestnut Hill Reservoir was completed, and legislative authority secured to connect the Sudbury River with the then existing "Cochituate" system.

Mr. Allen was a member of the lower branch of the State Legislature in 1878, and again in 1880. Both of these years he served on the committee on finance. He was a member of the State Senate for the years 1881 and 1882, and both of these years served as chairman of the committee on treasury; he was also a member of other important committees. He was a member of the Board of Aldermen of Boston for the years 1885 to 1888 inclusive, and for two years, 1886 and 1888, served as chairman of the board.

From 1855 to 1862 Mr. Allen was a commissioned officer of the famous Boston Light Infantry, a military company organized in 1798, and which has for a hundred years maintained a high position in the Volunteer Militia of Massachusetts. In 1861 this corps was increased to four companies and became known as the Second Battalion of Infantry. At the breaking out of the Rebellion in 1861, this command was detailed to Fort Warren in Boston Harbor, and remained there about sixty days. Their time was occupied in giving instruction to more than two thousand volunteers who were quartered there awaiting orders to be sent to the army. This organization was the nucleus of the Forty-third Regiment of Massachusetts Volunteers.

In all public emergencies Mr. Allen has ever been ready with council and practical support to lend a friendly hand. The public at large has come to look to him, with other gentlemen of the same stamp, as fitting representatives of their sympathy, and natural almoners of their bounty.
